

Reading at Wootton Bassett Infants' School

Why Reading Matters

- A rich reading experience of stories, poems and non-fiction gives children a template that can foster their imagination;
- It allows children to successfully access the rest of the curriculum;
- The best writers in any class are always readers and writing becomes an echo of their reading;
- Ultimately, children have to pass test and exams and a child's ability to read will always be assessed and certain standards will be expected;
- It is a source of relaxation and enjoyment;
- It is a life skill: despite the digital age that our children find themselves in, reading will always be at the heart of everything we do.

"The more that you read, the more things you will know. The more that you learn, the more places you'll go."-Dr Seuss

6 The right to mistake a book for real life.

7 The right to read anywhere.

8 The right to dip in.

9 The right to read out loud.

10 The right to be quiet.

What your child needs to be able to do

Can your child ...

- Decode it work out what the words are.
- Read it become fluent and expressive.
- Predict it predict what might happen next before reading and after they have read some of the book?
- Understand it understand all the words in the book?
- Find it talk about characters and what is happening in the story? Who? What? Where? When?
- Think about it Understand why things have happened in the book?
- Sequence it talk about the order of events and summarise what has happened?

What we do to encourage reading for pleasure

Staff share books with children daily. These books are read for the pure love of reading and listening to stories. Sometimes high-quality book talk will also happen and might include:

- Discussing the title, author, illustrator
- Making predictions as to the story content
- Discussing where to begin and the direction of reading
- Discussing the difference between a word and a letter
- Discussing the difference between words and a sentence
- Noting punctuation used to help the reader.
- Noting use of pictures and how these help tell the story
- Discussing vocabulary that may be unfamiliar
- Summarising the story so far
- Discussing characters and setting
- Recapping the story at the end
- Talking about what did they liked about it; what did they not like.

Book corners around the school.

Decodable Books and Reading for Pleasure.

• Decodable books focus on target phonemes (sounds) that the children have been taught and practice when reading. The children should be able to access these books independently as they would have practised the sounds covered in the book within their phonic lessons. This allows the children to embed their phonics knowledge and they will feel success when reading these fully decodable books.

We encourage that your children reads their decodable book at least 3 times:

- For decoding Children using their phonics to segment and blend the sounds together to read the word.
- For fluency- Read the book again, this time encourage your child to use a reading voice with expression and intonation.
- For understanding- Do they understand all the words in the book? Are there any new words you can talk about? Can they answer questions about the characters, the event or the information?

When your child is able to show confidence in all three areas then they will be ready to move onto the next stage of their journey.

Your child will also bring home a reading for pleasure book from the book corner or the school library. This book is intended to be shared at home with an adult.

Using our decodable books

Reading Records

 Please ensure you write in your child's reading record when you have heard them read. This is so we can see what your child is reading and how they are getting on. Here are some examples of what you might include in your child's reading record.

Guided Reading

Children will have guided reading sessions weekly with the teacher using our decodable reading books or in Year 2 the books might be more topic related.

- Texts used may be at a slightly higher level than the text the children read independently.
- Sessions will be planned in relation to reading skills e.g. prediction, retelling, word finding.
- When not reading with an adult, children might complete a comprehension or book related activity – prediction, book review, character analysis, letter to a character or listening to a story electronically, etc..

Talk Through Stories.

This is used in EYFS and is designed to extend and deepen children's vocabulary so that they can understand the books they will soon be able to read for themselves.

In Story week, we help children to get to know the story really well: the plot, the characters, and their actions and motives.

In Vocabulary week, we explore eight words from the story.

These words have been specifically selected to develop children's understanding of each word in the context of their everyday lives.

Whole Class Guided Reading in KS1

All other teaching of reading will be via a whole class text. This may be related to the topic the children are studying or it may be independent.

Texts used may be at a slightly higher level higher than the text the child reads independently.

Texts are chosen to support the 100 books to read before you leave WBI.

The children explore the text using VIPERS which encourages them to answer questions based on reading objectives.

What can you do?

- Be a good role model. Show that you value reading by making time to share books and talking about them;
- Make reading a part of everyday life; leaflets, menus, road signs, football results, instructions for games, recipes etc
- Have books everywhere at home, in your bag you never know when a reading opportunity will present itself.
- Listen to stories on CD or using Audible great if you have a long journey!
- Play rhyming games;
- Be a regular visitor to the library and take part in the activities they offer;
- Read, share and enjoy books together with no other distractions just for 10 minutes a day;
- Ask questions about the book and what you are reading (see inside the front cover of decodable books/ bookmarks)
- Read anything nothing is 'too babyish';
- Enjoy reading and sharing books together. Don't see it as a chore or a punishment.
- Talk about the vocabulary in the books you read. Can they think of any other words that mean the same?

Other ways we are encouraging reading

- Don't forget our reading initiative we have. The 100 books to read before you leave WBIS.
 We have compiled a list of the most celebrated, enjoyable and recognised books for all year groups and have been incorporating them into whole class reading, assembly stories, topic work, guided reading and library activities and displays. The list of books are on our website under learning resources. Children have a book mark in school on which they receive a sticker or a stamp for every book read on the list.
- The library in Wootton Bassett has the list and they sourced many of the books on the list and sometimes display them in the library.
- 150 club- If your child reads five times a week at home, they could achieve 150 reads by the end of the school year. That is a lot of words! Therefore, we would like to remind you of the 150 Club and we are hoping that as many children as possible will be in it. Every time you read with your child, we would like you to record it in their reading record book as usual. Your child's class teacher will then record their reads weekly on a class list. Those with 5 reads a week will receive a raffle ticket and entered into our termly prize draw.

and finally...

- All pupils must be encouraged to read widely across the curriculum. Reading widely and often increases pupils' vocabulary because they encounter words they would rarely hear or use in everyday speech.
 Reading also feeds pupils' imagination and opens up a treasure-house of wonder and joy for curious young minds.
- It is essential that, by the end of their primary education, all pupils are able to read fluently, and with confidence, in any subject in their forthcoming secondary education.
- (National Curriculum 2014)
- The teaching of reading is fundamental to a child's education. Without the ability to read at a level appropriate level for their age, a child is unable to leave our school with the necessary skills to succeed.
